Dr. Ilanit Gordon, an Associate Professor at the Department of Psychology and Director of the Social Neuroscience Lab at the Gonda (Goldschmied) Multidisciplinary Brain Research Center at Bar-Ilan, says: "Human sociality is rooted in our biological makeup. Through music we can connect and interact with others, and via the scientific exploration of the neurobiological basis of music, we can further our understanding of major issues in social neuroscience."

The authors say a better understanding of the social neuroscience of music can play an important role for helping to improve social bonding around the world, particularly in cultures that are in conflict.

Therapy? Straight life

Fuck it

My tongue is twisted from talkin'

My feet are blistered from walkin' alone

My head is burstin' with thoughts

And every bruise feels so familiar

This city's buzzin' with bastards

Cancer tans and plastic disasters

Wannabes and users and makers

Impotents and shake city fakers

So don't tell me everything's alright

And don't include me in your straight life

And don't tell me everything's alright

In your straight life

Respekt – HR princip

My system's sick with poison

Heart's bitter joys are jumpin'

Far away from better days

And everything feels so familiar

My arms are fed up reaching

My voice is through with breakin'

Myself, I'm sick of reason

Every bruise feels so familiar

So don't tell me everything's alright

And don't include me in your straight life

Don't tell me everything's alright

In your straight life

So don't tell me everything's alright

And don't include me in your straight life

So don't tell me everything's alright

In your straight life
